The average compactness of this 1991 Republican-drawn house plan was 36.0 which makes it even lower than the 38.2 value we found in the Democrats' 1971 house plan. This Republican house plan paired 20 Democrat incumbents in 9 districts, but no Republican incumbents were placed in the same district. The architect of this plan said "I am not a walking repository of the addresses of 132 members of the Ohio General Assembly and, therefore, there was no effort made to pair incumbents."
